

Preface:

The international symposium on “Recent trend/technology of food safety and management in Asia 2019 is jointly organized by Yamagata university and Chiang Mai university based on MOU agreement of university level on both universities. The symposium is scheduled to be held on March 14-15, 2019 in Tsuruoaka, Japan. The aims of this seminar are to provide an opportunity for academics, researchers, and graduate students in the field of Food safety and management as well as related fields from local and oversea institutions to present their research, exchange ideas and experiences leading to future research development and collaboration.

This symposium will also provide an excellent opportunity for students in the Faculty of Agriculture and graduate school of agriculture of Yamagata University to present the results of their studies. We expect that this symposium will promote more active exchange of students.
